

For more than 30 years, NOFFZ has been developing and producing industry-leading test systems and automation solutions for the entire product development process, from prototyping and validation to series production. Our range of services includes test and measurement systems for the automotive and telecommunications, consumer electronics, industrial and mechanical engineering, semiconductor and medical products industries.

Find out more about our company and its global locations:

<https://noffz.com/wp-content/uploads/2018/05/image-brochure.pdf>